

A word about holster selection

When attending one of our outdoor pistol courses, students must arrive with a proper belt, holster, and spare magazine carrier.

The holster may be OWB (outside the waistband), IWB (inside the waistband), or AIWB (appendix inside the waistband).

We encourage AIWB carry for safety and efficiency reasons.

Holsters We Recommend

Based on experience, we recommend the following brands: JM Custom Kydex, Dark Star Gear, Raven Concealment Systems, and Phlster.

For attaching your Kydex holster to your belt, there are 3 systems we recommend: Discreet Carry Concepts clips, Pull the Tab soft belt loops, or solid soft or hard belt loops.

The Belt

The concealment belt must be stiff and sturdy enough to carry the added weight of the holster and firearm without bending or shifting. Personally, I find nylon belts with an infinitely adjustable buckle to be comfortable and easy to use.

A word about holster selection

The width of the belt also needs to match BOTH the width of the holster belt loop attachment points as well as the pant belt loops. 1.5" is the most common width.

For concealment, The Foundation Belt from <https://edcbeltco.com> is my personal favorite though there are many other reputable brands.
